I won’t have work for a while...

Maybe I can do something to make some money. Rocío is selling toys. I can ask her.

Hi! Are these the toys you’re selling?

These are nice, right? Although some look like they broke during shipping.

Fátima, I didn’t get that job I mentioned.

I won’t have work for a while...

The next day, Fátima visits her friend Rocío.

Yes. I had to buy these things to get started.

But I’ll make the money back and more!

I’m sure they’ll send new ones to you.

And you’re going to have an income! I need something like that.
I don’t think I have enough money to pay for everything. Let me put some things back.

I know. I’m trying to get a job to make some money, but it’s not easy.

Fátima, look at all these bills. We can’t pay them. We’re in trouble.

The position is already filled? Okay. Maybe another time. Thank you.

Later that week, Fátima finds herself in trouble.
Listen, a lady from my church started making money the first month. It’s easy! There’s no risk! Trust me!

It’s easy. All you have to do is choose a membership package and you can start selling immediately.

I'll make money!
I don't have to pay now!

It sounds great, but I can't do it. I don't have the money to pay for the membership.

You don't have to pay now. You'll receive a box with products. You're going to love them! Pay when you get them.
I’m waiting for my package. I can’t wait to start selling and making money.

What happened?

I hope this company is better than the one I signed up with. I haven’t sold anything!

First, some of the toys they sent me were old or broken.

Then, they didn’t let me return them and said I had to pay again.

I called to cancel, but they wouldn’t let me and they charged my credit card again this month.

Fátima is excited about her chance to make money.
Rocío hasn’t been able to sell the toys or make any money. In fact, she is having problems with the company.

Ma’am, the instructions say that this package is Cash on Delivery. I can’t give it to you until you pay for it.

The next day.

Fátima wants to earn an income, but she remembers her friend Rocío’s problems.

Ma’am, the instructions say that this package is Cash on Delivery. I can’t give it to you until you pay for it.

Then take it. Something about this doesn’t feel right. I’m not going to pay for items that I can’t see first.
You don’t have to yell. I don’t like how you’re talking to me. I don’t want to do business with you. This sounds like a scam. Don’t call me anymore.

Don’t be silly... If you don’t pay you’ll be in trouble. You ordered these items and you owe us the money.

Fátima, why did you refuse the box we sent you? You knew you had to pay for them first. That was the deal.
When strangers call to sell you something in Spanish, they’re trying to win your confidence and trust. Speaking to you in your native language doesn’t mean that they’re honest.

If you get a call from someone you don’t know telling you how to make money working from home, say no thanks—and hang up. In real life, strangers don’t give away the chance to make money. If they know how to make money, how come they’re not doing it?

Don’t trust companies that insist you pay for a delivery by wiring money first or by paying Cash on Delivery (COD) before you can inspect the contents.

Intimidation and threats of deportation or a lawsuit to make you pay are illegal. Legitimate companies don’t harass their customers.

Report a company that asks you to pay for their mistake. If they say they made a mistake with your order and promise to send a refund, wait for the refund or the second shipment of the right order. Don’t pay twice if you can’t verify that they sent the correct order.

You don’t have to be a U.S. citizen to have consumer rights in the United States. If you suspect a scam, report it. File your complaint with the FTC or your state Attorney General.
