A Joint Partnership Between Federal, State and Local Law Enforcement Agencies in Conjunction With Community Organizations, Faith Based Groups and Private Businesses

Step Up Speak Up

"Take The Big Step"
SUSU

The Step Up, Speak Up (SUSU) Campaign began as a partnership between the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Philadelphia Division’s Community Relations Unit, Mothers in Charge (MIC) and Clear Channel Outdoor in an effort to encourage citizens living in the Philadelphia area to cooperate with law enforcement.

Should you come forward if you have information you think that law enforcement should know? Do you have doubts about whether to report what you have seen?

- Step up and make a difference
- We need to speak up and be a witness
- Only way to stop this violence
- We’re gonna have to break our code of silence
- Step up and make a change
- Speak up! Don’t let them get away
- Crime and Murders on the rise
- We gotta stand and Testify
- Undertakers are getting rich
- Cause people say Don’t Snitch
- We gotta Step Up and make a change
- Speak Up! Don’t be afraid
- Take The Big Step to save a life
- Speak Up! And do what’s right

There is no legal obligation to contact the police or other law enforcement agencies, but the information you give them could make the difference in bringing a criminal to justice. Your cooperation could prevent further crimes and protect others from becoming victims. All crimes, even less serious crimes, have a negative effect on our neighborhoods. Help your community by reporting what you know.

It is a criminal offense to intimidate a witness or anyone assisting law enforcement in an investigation. Some forms of intimidation are community-wide and subtle, such as the “Stop Snitching” apparel and popular music and videos.

The SUSU campaign is a response to those subtle forms of intimidation. The following is a resource guide for those who are considering or willing to “take the big step.”
