Internal Revenue Agent

The Professional Accountant of the IRS

Application Procedures
You may submit your application “Qualifications and Availability Form” (Form A) for the Internal Revenue Agent positions only during the time periods when a Vacancy Announcement is open. For information on time periods during which applications may be accepted and to order application packages, you should contact the Centralized Examining Unit at the following address:

Internal Revenue Service
Centralized Examining Unit (CEU)

New York, NY 10007-1823
Phone: (212) 436-1403

Application packages may also be requested by visiting the U.S. Office of Personnel Management web page at www.usajobs.opm.gov. For additional information on the Internal Revenue Agent position visit www.irs.gov and click on the “Careers” link.

Submit only one Form A, even though you may be interested in several locations. The CEU will only process the first Form A received from each applicant. Your Form A must be received by the closing date of the Vacancy Announcement.

You may apply for the Revenue Agent position based on pending education, which must be completed within twelve (12) months from the date of your application and prior to entering on duty. This information must be indicated on Form OF612 or resume to ensure proper consideration. Failure to do so may result in loss of consideration.

Assessment Process
As an entry-level applicant for grades GS-5 through GS-9, you will be required to go through an assessment process. Initially, you’ll be asked to complete a questionnaire designed to assess your educational background and work history as related to the competencies required for the Revenue Agent position. Your qualifying experience, education, and professional certification will be assigned to one of three quality levels, Superior, Highly Qualified, and Qualified. Experience and/or education that ranks in the highest quality level is considered Superior experience.

Those ranked in the superior category will be contacted first (followed by applicants in the highly qualified category and then applicants in the qualified category). For example, as a superior category rated applicant, you’ll be invited to participate in a two-part assessment process and a manager interview. The assessment process consists of a written simulation measuring knowledge of accounting (basic, intermediate, advanced, cost, auditing) and a telephone simulation measuring general competencies (problem solving, interpersonal skills, self management, decision making, oral communications). A brief interview with a management official will follow the assessment.
After the assessment, you will be notified of your final rating determination. Selection decisions will be based on your total background, test performance, and the results of the selection interview. Offers will be made in register order contingent on locations available.

Additional Information About Employment

Applicants who indicate a background that is unsuitable for employment will not be considered. Examples include employment discharge for cause, a conviction for an offense that indicates a lack of integrity or respect for law enforcement, and failure to pay federal debt where there are no extenuating circumstances. You will also be required to provide the following information or authorization upon request:

Tax Verification
Provide authorization to review past federal income tax filing records.

Background Investigation
Provide information requested to complete a thorough background investigation, including fingerprint check.

Selective Service Registration

Driver’s License
For positions in which operating a motor vehicle is essential to the efficient performance of the work, agents are required to possess or obtain a valid driver’s license.

Bilingual Positions
Some Internal Revenue Agents work in locations where they are required to communicate effectively in a language other than English. From time to time the IRS recruits for employees with bilingual skills. If you speak, comprehend, read and write in one or more languages in addition to English, you may wish to be considered for one of our bilingual positions. To be considered, you must carefully answer the question about language ability on the Form A. A language assessment will be required to measure your degree of competency (i.e. read, write and converse).

Veteran’s Preference
If you served on active duty in the United States military and were separated under honorable conditions, you may be eligible for veteran’s preference. All veterans are required to provide a copy of their DD214. A Standard Form 15 is required at the time you apply along with required documentation indicated on SF 15 if you are claiming 10 points.
